Cleaning Bathroom- Prevent the Growth of Molds and Mildew by Julia Roger

Article published on May 31st 2012 | Business

Whenever we enter a house the first noticeable thing is the bathroom as it tells us about the cleanliness and hygiene of the inmates. cleaning bathroom is therefore essential to prevent the growing of molds and mildew. As this part of the house mostly remain damp and wet and does not receive much sunlight hence they serve as the breeding place for various bacteria as well. If practiced on a regular basis then maintaining a clean bathroom wonâ€™t feel to be a tedious task as removing the soap scum deposited on the tiles or shower seem to be irritating for many of us.

In order to provide that shiny and sparkling glass pool fencing to your bathroom you need to clean it with chlorine bleach. Bathroom should be well ventilated to prevent the molds from growing and also safeguard you from the harmful fumes of the bleach. You could use a face mask and hand gloves for safety precautions. Preparing a chlorine solution could be much easier as you can conveniently spray the same on the affected area in order to get the desired cleaning. Soak the solution for some time so that the molds can be completely cleaned and then scrub off the same paying special attention to the grout lines.

You even need to take care of the shower as well and clean it to prevent the deposition of soap scum and mildew. The shower door, curtain, track and tub should also be simultaneously cleaned to ensure a hygienic bathroom. After scrubbing rinse the bathroom thoroughly with plain water and let it completely dry. You may also use borax solution to take care of the remaining mold spores that might be lingering. This solution is highly effective as it prevents the occurrence of molds in future and removes the stale odor existing in the bathroom.

Bathroom mirrors also require cleaning to get rid of the foggy effects and the streak marks. Clean the mirrors with the window cleaner to remove the effects. Sink, countertops and faucet also require cleaning along with the toilet. A clean and hygienic bathroom cleaning for bathroom is what everyone wants so make your bathroom sparkle like new by cleaning it on a frequent basis.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/business-articles/cleaning-bathroom-prevent-the-growth-of-molds-and-mildew.htm - Article Side

Julia Roger - About Author:
For more information on a cleaning bathroom, check out the info available online; these will help you learn to find the a glass pool fencing!

Article Keywords:
cleaning bathroom, glass pool fencing

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!