Article published on December 22nd 2011 | Business

Mainly when it comes to bands that can be one of any style of decorative concrete like- stamped concrete, exposed aggregate, colour, finishing salt, etc.

Another form of decorative concrete is concrete with broom finish. Broom finishes can be light broom or course depending on the bristles of the brush you choose. Though unlike many forms of decorative concrete, this is not a luxury finish, but provides a nonslip surface, making it a highly functional decorative concrete. You must not utilize any such broom to decorative concrete, broom rather to select specifically for this reason.

Concrete colour is a very popular decorative concrete. There are two basic forms of coloured concrete. It can be placed into the mixture or it may be a hardener powder is sprinkled on top of concrete.

Exposed aggregate is another trendy form of decorative concrete. Many times, the rocks of diverse colours that are embedded in the concrete are just the right touch to the decor of your drive or walkways. This type of decorative concrete is generally formed by the top layer of cement paste chemically washed either with water or pressure blasting the rocks to show through. In this case, the rocks may be only placed on top of concrete or may be in the entire mixture.

Another way is floating decorative concrete and concrete trowel texture. This is a fun decorative concrete, as there are many patterns that can be done in concrete, such as whirlpools, or arcs of different sizes, or basically any shape you can imagine. The texture can be created however you want, coarse, medium, or soft. What you get depends on the tool used to make the pattern. For example, wood floats create thicker concrete, and aluminium floats or steel trowels create medium or smooth finishes. You can apply spray-on concrete resurfacing to clean the concrete.

Painting concrete is otherwise beautiful decorative concrete. You could use this type of decorative concrete in basically every situation you want to make sure the concrete is well cured, so if you have concrete now, and wants to make decorative concrete, then paint the existing concrete.

A finished plate of rock is another popular form of decorative concrete that has. This is an interesting technique because it is not really scientific, which is pretty basic. What is done is usually a staple of water softener salt crystals which is about 1 / 8 "to 3 / 8" in size are more or less relaxed in the fresh concrete, and a roll of some sort is used to press salt crystals in the concrete. Once the concrete dries, the surface is washed, dissolved salt and leave small holes.

There are several other forms of decorative concrete concrete resurfacing brisbane . Basically, your imagination is the limit, and you can even make your existing concrete decorative concrete, which can improve the value of your property and make your living room more beautiful.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/business-articles/different-types-of-decorative-concrete-resurfacing.htm - Article Side

Davidwarner - About Author:
DavidAndrewWarner is an experienced writer in business industry and works for ConcreteColourSystem, a leading manufactured in Australia. At present, he is writing on different topics like a Concrete Admixtures, Decorative Concrete, Concrete Resurfacing Gold Coast, Mineral Oxides, a Concrete Resurfacing Sunshine Coast and others. To find more info, please visit www.concretecoloursystems.com.au .

Article Keywords:
decorative concret, spray-on concrete resurfacing, concrete concrete resurfacing brisbane, concrete admixtures

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!