Explore the Different Management Training Courses Available by Julia Roger

Article published on August 24th 2012 | Business

Management Training courses are conducted to provide a detailed knowledge on management concepts while observing real life examples. Real-life training sessions are vital to provide a proper outlook about the industries.

Who all are eligible to enroll in these training programs?

The candidate should have a graduation degree. Age limit is mostly in between 22-60 years.

Candidates can be from any educational stream and work field. An engineering graduate can enroll for such training program. Similarly, a graduate in Sanskrit can also opt for such a training course. Through the training program, the candidates will get a positive overview about the basic managerial skills required at factories, business organizations, and corporate industries.

management training courses are mainly arranged according to a candidateâ€™s needs and subject selection. However, the first semester is same for every individual. For the 2nd semester, candidates are categorically divided into groups. The groups may comprise of 10-12 members or even less.

According to subjects and work position, different type of management training courses is organized these days. Have a look:

1) Organizational management

2) Production management

3) Quality control management

4) Logistics management

5) Marketing

Organizational management focuses on practical managerial skills and abilities in different types of environments (cross-cultural, to be precise). It focuses on the importance of information technology to improve the corporate managerial skills and abilities. It also focuses on human-organization related problems and solving tactics as well abilities.

Production management deals with implantation of necessary steps required for smooth & efficient operation of industrial production procedure. Knowledge of production management is required both in service as well manufacturing industries.

Quality control management is mainly concerned with service quality issues. Whether product quality is maintained or not? What is the quality of services offered by office staffs? All these factors are handled by quality control management team.

Logistics management deals with planning, implementation, controlling, and transshipment of services (read, product) from origin point to consumption point.

Marketing management training mainly focuses on the different marketing skills and capabilities.

This is a general lean training that helps in developing the basic managerial skills among candidates.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/business-articles/explore-the-different-management-training-courses-available.htm - Article Side

Julia Roger - About Author:
For more information on a management training courses, check out the info available online; these will help you learn to find the a lean training!

Article Keywords:
management training courses, lean training

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!