In India, people nowadays are very keen on knowing what is happening across their country. Every Indian citizen wants be aware about the events of the nation. This is done with the help of news. India news today has progressed to a great extent due to the innovations and advancements in technology.

There are various news sources such as newspapers, television, internet, etc which provide us with the latest India news. Television news channels broadcast the most recent and current news. There are various languages like Hindi, English, Marathi, etc in which the news is available in. this makes it convenient for anyone and everyone to understand it in a better way.

In India latest news is also featured on online news websites. These websites deliver us with the most recent and breaking news. The best part of getting news updates online is that it is time saving and can be accessed from anywhere and at anytime. Online news is preferred especially by those who belong to the working class. Due to overload of work, they lead a very tedious and hectic life.

The latest India news includes the most recent up-to-date news updates which are hot off the press. These include news which is related to entertainment, politics, celebrity gossips, health and beauty, sports news, etc. However, sometimes, the media and press exaggerate stuff and show even the minutest news as India latest news. This is not at all accepted by the viewers. Also, sometimes news channels on TV feature the luxurious and lavish lifestyle of the bollywood celebrities which wrongly influences the younger generation.

India news today should rather focus on crucial and social issues of national importance such as poverty, illiteracy, unemployment, child sexual abuse, measures to combat pollution, population problems, etc. the media has a vast reaching influence on the masses and the people are very well acquainted with the news and therefore, media and press should take complete advantage of this and make the citizens aware of the nation's progress and regress. After all, it is every citizen's right to know about the current situation of their state and their nation as a whole. Public opinion is also of utmost importance. There are various helpline toll-free numbers on which you can call and speak about your views and opinions regarding certain issues. It is made sure that your comments and views are taken care of.
