Have you ever been harassed by monkeys? If yes, but how? There are many ways through which one can feel monkeys quite disgusting. For instances, you have a garden with plants and trees loaded with fruits. After coming back from somewhere you found all these fruits are missing and plants torn up, what would be your reaction exactly at that point of time! It really happens in the villages and the amount of damage caused by monkeys is quite huge in the countryside.

The worth that has been carried by monkeys relating to the histories and cultures along with them is no longer found in the thoughts of people. The availability of historical mention of monkeys in the great epic called Ramayana had caught the imagination of hundreds of people from around the world. However, there is a change in perception by people regarding this beautiful creature. If survey is done today, one would get the most of the people getting to be anti monkey. Obviously, there are various reasons that are making people to go into that mood.

In big cities such as Delhi or Mumbai the monkeys are giving insurmountable trouble which is doing nothing but only creating hatred towards this creature. Today, one would get the streets that are having religious significance where people throw out a lot fruits and sweets around, usually attract monkeys. Monkeys trouble are common sights sometimes prove so fatal that it became fully annoying for passerby. The monkey menace is highly affective to fruits sellers, vendors or women and children traveling; apart from that few monkeys are not at all scared by human beings and instead try to attack them.

There are cases reported by newspapers and other forms of media about the attacks of monkeys to women and men abruptly that sometimes become highly serious.

These days the population of stray monkeys is increasing at speedy rate which is only adding problems for people and monkey scare has grabbed the attention of people living in the cities. Anyway the Government has to find out certain solutions for those increasing monkeys otherwise it will be highly difficult for travelers to move out of their homes. There are certain health hazard issues associated with monkeys. In addition to the physical torture given to the people there is also a danger that disease carrying monkeys would transfer the diseases to human as well.

For the prevention of monkeys there are certain tactics to be adopted by the people such as installing the anti monkey spikes at your home scattering in all over the roof. The Government should check the increasing number of monkeys with proper planning and implementation. It is also the responsibility of the people to take care of them as they should not litter the fruits like mangoes, bananas grapes etc. which usually attract the monkeys. Even if anyone feeding the monkeys should properly distribute to them one by one. In case if thrown one it will create fighting among the monkeys that will lead monkeys to become more provocative and attacking as well.

If proper timely measures are taken, the nuisance of monkeys would get reduced significantly.
