BOTOX is the trade name for a chemical developed from Clostridium botulinum bacteria. If this substance is shot to the muscles in small doses, it will prevent the muscles from contracting or moving. BOTOX relaxes the muscles and helps make the skin look smoother with lesser wrinkles.

A BOTOX therapy is great for several months. It is extremely effective to remove wrinkles around the eyes, forehead, and neck where muscles are almost never used. However, BOTOX does not work when applied to the muscles surrounding the mouth since these are utilized more regularly. BOTOX will also be inadequate for wrinkles that are created by sunlight damage.

If you are a resident of Los Angeles and intend to have BOTOX therapies, take time to search for a qualified physician. Select a licensed Los Angeles doctor who is extremely familiar with BOTOX therapies, has really good credentials, is associated with a local clinic, and has modern clinic facilities and devices. This doctor will think of your health background and discuss the whole therapy as well as your goals from it.

A BOTOX treatment takes about 10 to 15 minutes. You may feel a sting because anesthetics are not used in the treatment. After the therapy, patients are recommended to stand and sit only. They should not lie down or contact the injection site to stop the BOTOX chemical from switching to muscles not included in the therapy.

BOTOX therapies have no downtime. Full effect normally takes fourteen days, but marked development can be seen in 3 to 4 days. The therapy is good for 3 to 6 months. The moment the effects of BOTOX begin to wane, you should return to your Los Angeles BOTOX physician for retreatment.

If you want to keep the wrinkles away, remember that BOTOX Beverly Hills specialists administer can be expensive, so you need to save money for it or include it in your budget. But the great news is that a number of BOTOX therapy specialists accept most modes of payment. You can pay in credit cards, cash, check, or through payment plans with lending companies. Know which mode of payment is suitable for you and inquire your physician during the initial consultation if this is suitable to him/her.

Like most medical procedures, BOTOX treatments also have their fair share of advantages and negative aspects. Discuss this with the BOTOX Los Angeles doctor who will do the treatment. For more information about BOTOX, you can investigate Internet for forums that discuss the subject.
