Article Side
In Depth Analysis of Automated Billing by Chris Adam

Article published on March 3rd 2012 | Business

Automated billing is the process in which the invoicing for various goods and services occurs without any manual intervention. This type of Billing Service is known for providing the privilege to generate and send electronic copies of the invoices to the customers. When one uses this billing software, manage the invoicing process becomes a kid stuff..

Some features are common to the automated billing software. This software also enables you create customer profiles containing every data you may need. This data includes the name of the customer, billing address, billing contact and an email address for sending the invoice electronically. In most cases this billing program collects data from other sources that can either do with customer usage or allow entries to be made manually once they are fulfilled. The processes within the billing system then apply for the proper rates for each order and then ultimately create an invoice. Depending on the configuration of the billing procedure, the invoice may be printed out along with a companion envelope just after invoice is generated. But invoices can be automatically printed at a specific point of time with the help of special software. automated billing works best when a customer has a standing order or there is a recurring payment that has to be requested on a weekly or a monthly basis. With the help of this application, the system can be used to automatically generate standing or recurring invoices to the desired customers. This process is helpful in eliminating the need of the employees to waste time in the same job over and over again. This results in more productive and cost efficient utilization of resources. Companies of all sizes use this software. Whatever be the type of the business, this billing process is used by one and all and the expenses can be lowered to help the firms gain more profits.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/business-articles/in-depth-analysis-of-automated-billing.htm - Article Side

Chris Adam - About Author:
For more information on a Billing Service check out the info available online; these will help you learn to find the a automated billing!

Article Keywords:
Billing Service, Automated Billing

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!