Their workshops in the picturesque village of Southwick in Hampshire, Back to Basics take on a wide range of commissions, from furniture and fireplaces to fitted bedrooms, home-studies and of course kitchens.

Run by craftsmen rather than salesmen, Back to Basics treat every customer as an individual, taking time to listen and understand their specific kitchens Hampshire requirements and taking care to interpret their dreams into reality. Our shelves are supported on metal shelf strips which allow you to adjust the height of each shelf at 10mm intervals to maximise your storage space.

All our wall units are 350mm deep (not 300mm like most kitchens) the advantage of this extra depth means you can use them to store 12" dinner plates. We have built characterful oak wardrobes to fit the leaning walls and twisting beams of listed buildings as well as sleek, fully kitchens Surrey fitted storage systems for modern homes. Increasingly we are helping more customers convert bedrooms into home-studies with furniture that subtly blends executive formality with more contemporary design.
