Self defense is an essential part of oneâ€™s life, as it enables the ability to resists sudden attacks as well as makes you gain confidence on yourself while moving out on road. With the increasing amount of crimes committed over the roads, the best way to safeguard you is to learn the various martial art skills at the martial art schools. There are various martial arts skills that could be learnt by a student, like the karate, kung fu, taekwondo, as well the krav maga Israel which is a pretty new on the list in comparison to the other.

The knowledge of self defense makes you invincible to your enemies and if they are unlucky enough to attack you without any firearms, your martial art skills can not only protect you but also can make you get on top of the attackers and can turn the table for you. But then how krav maga Israel differs from the other two? This variant of the martial art, as the name suggests has been developed in the Israel and includes the real life situations while practicing.

The martial art has one special thing on itself, it is trained in such a way to protect one from multiple enemies, while they are armed and you are not. As this self defense technique has no limits, it is done under the surveillance of the instructor, who could make it sure that the practicing people do not harm each other in the process of learning the skill. The krav maga Israel art of protecting oneself has become very much popular among the various other countries where the schools teaching these skills can easily be found. This technique is much more helpful than other such martial art skills, as it is trained for the real life situations only and not for the usual competition purpose.
