A small but dazzling diamond ear-ring set caught the eyes of Paul who was lazing around the mall one Saturday afternoon after a rather hectic year end audit that had almost drained him of the last bit of energy. It is a very funny job, Paul thinks once in a while, that he is otherwise quite free for the rest of the year, but these two months or so, when there is an audit happening in the office, he almost burns himself out.

Paulâ€™s family, his wife and children were visiting their grandma and Paul really had not much to do over the weekend. So he could not wake up early morning, had a shower, caught up with the headlines in the newspaper, and there was nothing except the usual gloomy stuff that made it to headline news these days, and then drove out to the burger shop a few miles down the road for a burger. He had the entire Saturday afternoon to himself and that is what brought him to the mall. He casually walked inside the store and checked out the ring. It was not very costly but something that Paul could not afford just now and he thought to himself if he had some spare money, he could have gone for it.
