Article published on July 23rd 2012 | Business

Traveling contractors spend most of the year on the road, away from the comforts of home and their families. Traveling across the country doesnâ€™t usually lend itself to comfort and convenience and while your compensation might help make up for what youâ€™re missing, there are actually ways that you can really make a home away from home even with short term housing. Below, youâ€™ll find some excellent options to help you enjoy more comfort while on the job.

Making a Home Away from Home

Perhaps the single most important consideration in increasing your comfort and enjoyment while out on the road knows how to really make a home away from home. When choosing your lodgings, understand that not just any old hotel or motel will do. You can most certainly stay with a big name hotel or motel chain, but youâ€™re really only going to get a bed and four walls. There are better options out there.

Independent small motels can provide you with some real benefits here. For instance, youâ€™ll have a unique room, allowing you to avoid the cookie cutter lodgings available with most motels and hotels. Unique, individual decor and furnishings really help you feel more comfortable and at home even when youâ€™re away. Youâ€™ll also find that these independent hotels and motels can provide more personal service, and often offer great meals that youâ€™ll never find with a major chain.

However, your options arenâ€™t limited to just motels. If you have an RV or travel with another contractor who does, RV parks can be excellent options for your needs. They offer some benefits that canâ€™t be found with hotels or motels as well.

For instance, RV parks are often less expensive per night than even independent lodging establishments, helping you stretch those per diems farther. They also offer other perks, such as outdoor grilling areas. RV parks often accept pets as well, and they have laundry facilities on the premises, which offer more convenience. Of course, you have to have an RV to make use of these options, although some RV parks have cabins for rent.

Key Factors in Choosing Your Lodgings

When choosing your lodgings, whether staying at an RV park or with an independent motel, youâ€™ll want to consider several different factors to increase your convenience and cost savings.

â€¢ Cooking Facilities â€“ If the place youâ€™re staying doesnâ€™t offer meal service, make sure that i cooking facilities. Youâ€™re not going to want to subsist on McDonaldâ€™s the entire time youâ€™re in t and cooking your own food will help you save some money as well.

â€¢ Laundry Facilities â€“ While RV parks usually have their own laundry facility, thatâ€™s not always th case with hotels and motels. Find out if the properties youâ€™re considering have washers and dryers available. If they donâ€™t, find out how close the nearest laundromat is.

â€¢ Other Amenities â€“ Youâ€™ll be spending most of your time on the job, but there will be downtime some point. Make sure you choose a home away from home where you can enjoy some additional amenities like a swimming pool, hiking/walking trail, sports courts, fishing, and more.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/business-articles/making-a-home-on-the-road.htm - Article Side

Traveling Contractor - About Author:
The Traveling Contractor, LLC is providing reasonable a RV park rentals, weekly rentals, monthly rentals and a temporary housing throughout the USA. For more detail please visit at www.TheTravelingContractor.Com

Article Keywords:
Temporary Housing, Short Term Housing, Temporary Housing For Rent, RV Park Space For Rent

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!