Newquay Stag Party: Time to Have Fun by Julia Roger

Article published on March 21st 2012 | Business

Newquay on Cornwallâ€™s Atlantic Coast is one of the UKâ€™s favourite seaside towns for holiday or sho break choice. It has been an important tourist destination for more than a century, chiefly because of its coastline and nine long and within reach sandy beaches, including Fistral. Around 22,000 people live in Newquay, but the population can augment to around 100,000 during the summer time as it has a great number of holiday accommodations.

Newquay has vigorous nightlife. There is an extensive assortment of nightspots, from chill out bars and traditional pubs to beach side cafes and nightclubs. The town also plays host to quite a few enormous festivals and events.

Newquay also prides itself on some of the excellent surfing spots in the planet and one of the best quad bike racing circuits in the UK.

In recent years, Newquay has developed into a world-renowned destination for the best stag and hen parties, with a variety of activities like go-karting, kite surfing, paintball, golf and other sporting activities available to guests. Having a newquay nightlife party allows you to surf all day and drink all night. You can start your stag weekend from surfing, shark fishing to flying down one of the longest, highest and fastest zip wires in the entire European continent. Alternatively, if you and your stag party are feeling a little rundown from last nightâ€™s frolics, you can just relax around on the beach or in a fine pub.

If you are looking for Newquay stag party, it is best to contact an event company, which has wide knowledge of all best stag venues and activities.

The place is also packed with diverse hotels or cottages so you do not have to be anxious about accommodations. As the UK's party capital, it has a continuous supply of fun things for your party!
