If you have large quantities of paper that need cutting in one go then what you need is ream cutters.

It is important that the ream cutters you choose for your business are reliable and high performance giving you the results that you need quickly and efficiently, however, choosing ream cutters for your business can be a difficult decision if youâ€™re not familiar with the technology available.

This article has been written in order to give you as much useful information as possible to ease the process of purchasing ream cutters for your business.

Invest in a Ream Cutter

If you already have experience cutting large documents or large amounts of paper then youâ€™ll know how difficult it can be. As youâ€™re probably already aware, traditional guillotine cutters are only capable of cutting a few sheets of paper at a time, and the same applied for rotary trimmers.

If you need to cut a large amount of paper in one go you will need a stack cutter otherwise known as a ream cutter for your business.

It is important to consider the following features when choosing ream cutters for your business:

â€¢ Cutting capacity â€“ depending on the models of ream cutters that youâ€™re looking at, the cutting capacity might be based on the number of specific pages it can cut or thickness in inches. The higher the cutting capacity of the ream cutter, the better the productivity that is offered.

â€¢ Blade width â€“ ream cutters have difference blade widths, with some as small as 12â€• for cutting lett sized paper. Ream cutters have blade widths that range in size, including 17â€• for wide paper or 18â€• for press sheets.

â€¢ Paper stop â€“ the most important factor to consider when looking at ream cutters is their paper stop. If the paper stop is not perfectly square or solid the quality of the cut will greatly suffer.

â€¢ Safety â€“ all too often safety is mentioned in the workplace, however, it is crucial to consider safety when youâ€™re looking at ream cutters. Ream cutters are extremely sharp and can easily cut off a finger or even a hand. You should only consider ream cutters that require two-handed operation, with guards to prevent any one getting near the blade during cutting.

The great thing about ream cutters is that you can save plenty of cash over the year as youâ€™ll be saving minutes every time you cut paper. In the 21st Century the saying â€œtime is moneyâ€• has never been more relevant, with the recession hitting the majority of businesses quite hard.

If time can be saved on as many every day jobs as possible, then a direct result will be more money being saved. Search online for ream cutters today if youâ€™re interested in improving the efficiency of your business, whether itâ€™s an offline or online.
