If you are working in IT industry and are looking for new business opportunities, there is a good opportunity for you. You can start your own web hosting Service Company. With the transition of all businesses on online platform, the web hosting service providers are in great demand. A web hosting service provider enables you to make your website accessible through World Wide Web. When you design and upload your website on World Wide Web, it can be accessed from any part of the world. People can see the content you present through your website and then get information about your products or services.

A service provider in web hosting enables you to run your website smoothly and carry your business operations by providing you shopping cart. It advertises you among large mass of customers and promotes your brand through online advertisements. If you are doing online business, you need a computer for 24 hours connectivity with internet. You can handle your own server from this computer. You can manage your mail accounts and web applications.

Based on the structure of your business, you can provide different reseller web hosting provider services to your customers. You can offer them free web hosting service, which has limitations as compared to paid web hosting services. Shared services for web hosting are those in which a number of domain names share common resources. Through reseller web hosting services, you can become web hosts. It allows you to resell windows hosting, linux hosting or dotnet hosting. You can also offer your customers cloud or dedicated server hosting services. In dedicated services, you get your own server and have full control on it.

There are many hosting plans to sell to your customers. Once you start your business and become a reseller web hosting provider, customers start coming to you. Once they hire your services, they permanently get connected with you. The biggest benefit of reseller plan is that, you can hire other resellers to sell your services; these resellers can further hire resellers.

By becoming a reseller hosting provider, you can sell web space. You can also offer other services like designing web sites, registering domain names and developing and maintaining e-commerce sites. You can offer advertising and promotion services to your customers as added advantage to them for hiring your services. However you can charge them for your services for their promotional campaigns.
