Rolling Solo: Motorcycling Safety Tips for Newbies by Clare Westby

Article published on August 17th 2012 | Business

If there was a list of the safest cars on the road, don't expect the motorbike to be anywhere near the top. According to a 2001 report by the National Highway Security Traffic Comission, people riding motorbikes are about 5 times more most likely to get injured in accidents, and a shocking 26 times more likely to die in significant accidents compared with car drivers. Although these figures are very deplorable in nature, there is still a multitude of methods to increase motorbike driving protection.

Motorcycles make up just one percent of the vehicles on the road; but sad to say, they account for nearly 19 percent of fatalities. The most typical explanation of these incidents is because riders are less visible and eminent in heavy traffic. However, some reports say that motorbike accidents are frequently caused by motorists themselves. Lots of motorcyclists have a tendency to push their ride past its speed limit, at some point making them crash to hazards at full speed and force.

If you're planning to acquire a motorbike, remember that roadway safety lies in your hands. Observe correct roadway decorum to steer clear, or at least, decrease possibilities of accidents. Right here are a couple of ideas to follow after making a motorbike acquisition to be on the safe side.

Never Forget to Use a Helmet

Groups like the National Safety Council sponsor programs to educate drivers about sharing the road with motorcyclists every year. Because of these programs, motorbike accidents in Ohio have substantially gone down. Motorcyclists are always advised to don helmets to keep their heads secure in case it hits hard surfaces; 50 percent of all motorbike fatalities happen since people fail to use helmets. Be sure to obtain a durable and safety-tested helmet when purchasing from motorcycle dealers Columbus Ohio residents regular.

Avoid Drunk-Driving

Drunk-driving or DUI (Driving under the Influence) is a common reason of roadway mishaps. Driving a motorcycle Ohio car dealerships offer when intoxicated is a mishap hanging around to occur. You can wind up with more than just a couple of cracked bones or worst, cost you your life.

Get Training and Develop your Driving Abilities
