Education is a key word in life, it is very important in every oneâ€™s life. Life doesnâ€™t have a meaning without education. Education is a very necessary base for every country and it keeps a special importance in developing country and the reason is that if more people will be educated then there will be less of poverty, more of literacy and employment, and all of this will help in advancement of the country towards success. There is a lot of importance of education especially in a country like India which is a developing nation. If people start growing in sense of education then it is sure that socially there will be no evils left helping the nation in all form of development.

Talking more about the education level in India, our government itself is quite interested to in increasing the education level in India. We can see that there are many steps taken by the government of India in the recent budget just to enhance the level of education in India such as the government brought 25% reservation for the children coming into below poverty line so that they can also get a chance to study in private school till the age of 14. Not only this much government has even brought measures such as 22% finance to the Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan taken by the government to increase level of education in India. There is an increase by 27% in Rajiv Gandhi Shiksha scheme to increase education level.

Other schemes are also there such as mid day meal where the children are served with mid day meal along with education. Not only this much there are special schemes for girl education in India like there is free education for the girl child until the age of 14 who come inside the below poverty line. Tuition fees are reduced for the girl children coming into the line, these steps are taken by the government not just to increase the literacy level in India in fact this step is taken so that girl child is promoted in the country. Indiaâ€™s improved education system is seen as one of the most important contributor of economic rise in India.

The Indian government is taking a lot of measures to increase the education level in India and it can be taken up as a step towards a proper structure of development in India. School is one to the key element which is helping India in front of education. There are schools in Noida which gives out good education to students in India. There are boyâ€™s schools in Noida as well as girlâ€™s school in No which are very good and helps out in education.
