Sonepat is a small city of Haryana state and also a neighboring city of Delhi. Although the city is an ancient town of the Sonepat district but the industrial development and make over of the city has started a few decades ago. Besides being a neoteric industrialized city, it has also shown a tremendous change in its education front. The city has managed to home some of the best institutes and Universities till date. The city of Sonepat is a good example of an intelligent use of technology, especially in the field of education and learning. The state authority has helped the school administration to evolve and develop the study and teaching pattern. The schools here have restructured their academic and co curricular patterns to transform and improve almost every aspect of the school.

The locations of the schools in these areas are close and within easy reach of the residential areas. The schools in Sonepat city are either run by government or some private body or organization. The schools also have affiliations from CBSE, ICSE Boards. These schools are trying to involve such project and activity works that involves students and teachers collaboration, so that they could have a better and open channel of communication and could also learn the skill of team work, not just with co mates but with their elders as well.

Schools are always going to be an important institution of our society for bringing a solid change in our society and its future. So itâ€™s always important to choose a good school which could satiate the needs of todayâ€™s demanding world. A school is a place where a child comes and explores their inner self. Not just this, as they study and compete with other members of same age group they get their first hand experience of the real world .We could say that by entering the school life, the students enter the microcosm of this world. So itâ€™s really important to help kids learnâ€¦â€¦to learn everything about this vast and never ending world. But that does not include stuffing their minds with n- number of facts and figuresâ€¦so here comes the true job of schools and concerned authorities to provide such education system and strategies to the student fraternity that they could love the process of learning. Like many western and Developed countries our country is also trying to involve and add such innovative study techniques to their education strategy, that would bring about an all round development of a child. Some of the well known girls, boys and coeducational institutes are present in Sonepat.
