For girls, cocktail dresses are the styles that can help them to show own personalities and styles. Girls like cocktail skirts not only because they are "short and sweet", but also because the skirts give them a chance to show off their beauty with some simple designs. Stylish but also elegant, this is the first impression that such a style leaves. So girls, are you still waiting your ideal semiformal or party attires 2012? Just pick out one style from the following stylish cocktail gowns and you will be the belle of the night.

Let's begin with one of the most classic styles "little black dress". It was published in 1926 and designed by Coco Chanel, a French famous designer. At that time no one knows that the style has become the indispensable one in almost every special occasion. It is classic, simple but also modern with the latest designs. Girls love little black skirts very much because the pattern could flatter many body shapes. This style will never go wrong.

Strapless style of cocktail dresses are the favorite choices when girls attend to some special occasions as the style allows girls shows the most pleasing side. Designed with sweetheart neckline or V-neck, the style highlights the whole upper body. No matter what neckline you choose, the style will help you to show the best asset. That is the reason why girls like to choose the strapless style as their cocktail party gowns. Besides, the style is also very free and comfortable for girls to sit, walk, and even dance in such a party night.

The next style is the shift cocktail dress, which is also the classic cut for girls who have straight body figures. Unlike strapless style, this style sometimes has the design of sleeves, such as cap sleeves. High neckline is the main feature compared to other styles. Proper accessories are very important when wear this style. Simple jewelries are good choice.

The last style of popular cocktail skirts 2012 is A-line style. It can be said that this style was and will be never out of style because of the classic design. Girls like this style because it flatters almost every body figure. A-line strapless sweetheart neckline cocktail skirts are the classic styles when girls choose their party attires. A-line style is the style that can accent the good parts and hide the problem part, so girls like this style very much.

What has mentioned above are just a small part of cheap cocktail dress this year. Actually there are also some other popular styles, but I strongly recommend these four patterns because all of my friends speak highly of them when they took part in dance parties. If you like one of them, do not hesitate and just buy one.
