Article published on March 13th 2012 | Business

Why is domain names registration important?

Domain names are used as a necessary identity for sites that are published on the internet. Without a domain name, it will become simply impossible to identify a site from some other one. There are certain rules and regulations of DNS that are followed for the formation of a domain name.

DNS stands for DOMAIN NAME SYSTEM. It is a distributed (hierarchical) naming, used for any type of resources that are connected via the internet or even some private networks.

Domain names consist of concatenated parts that are delimited by the help of dots. These parts are termed as labels. One common example:www.xyz.com.

If you are looking for domain names registration then try to look for a suitable registrar available in the market. The registrar should have the necessary approval from ICANN (Internet Corporation for Assigned Names & Numbers). One popular registration company is godaddy.com (considered to be the largest registrar). There are also several other similar web hosting and DNR service providers available. Some of these names include eNom, Tucows, Dotster, Network Solutions, Key Systems, &Melbourne IT. All you need is to search properly before approaching any particular service provider.

Search for DNR services available online. But remember, the searching should be in a comprehensive way. You will definitely find a lot of online agencies, offering for such services at attractive rates. But, look for those that have a positive reputation. In the process, suggestion from friends, colleagues, or even family members can be helpful. Also, it is necessary to check on the reviews and comments by other users and clients. The domain names that top the list include .com, .net, .org, .edu, and .gov.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/business-articles/the-truth-about-domain-name-the-registration-procedure-involved.htm - Article Side

Julia Roger - About Author:
For more information on a domain names registration, check out the info available online; these will help you learn to find the a domain name!

Article Keywords:
domain names registration,domain name

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!