Ownerâ€™s corporation management is defined as a group of managers who are jointly appointed by an owners corporation to carry out the management and administration functions of the common property. Some of the key functions of the OCM includes collection of fees, insurance maintenance, general maintenance and repairs and financial records maintenance.

It is important to register the corporation management to ensure smooth and uninterrupted functioning. A particular member of this management should necessarily be an adult having the required amount of professional indemnity insurance cover and is not solvent under administration. Once the owner corporation management has been registered, you must make all the efforts to maintain this registration. In case, the management fails to comply with the laid down guidelines, the registration will be automatically cancelled.

One of the essential functions of the owners corporation management is that of building management services. Maintaining a given property in all its aspects is not an easy task and requires a lot of careful consideration of the various factors associated with it. This is because proper maintenance of a particular building is very important to ensure its longevity. Building management services entails many important functions like discovering of water leaks, reducing equipment downtime, incorporating more of renewable sources of energy, detecting unnecessary lighting, which wastes energy, and so on.

It is best to hire a building management services company on a contractual basis. This is because these companies come with an extensive amount of experience within this domain and have a well-qualified team of engineers. They are well aware of all the building automation systems, in and out. The building management system that is set up will make it easy for you to monitor, operate and manage all the required procedures.
