

Article published on February 9th 2012 | Business

Envelopes are ageless and there are many types of envelopes available in the markets nowadays. These kinds include: custom envelopes, cd envelopes, card envelopes, business envelopes and so on. Diverse envelopes are used in varying fields. Envelopes can be bought or can be made home easily. They can custom printed too from printing firms anywhere anytime.

Envelopes have been here as far as 15th century when kings used them to send messages across their kingdoms. Even then the use and significance of envelopes was realized. The print envelope offers privacy and therefore is very popular even today. The usage of envelopes has amplified and so have their types. The main purpose of an envelope is to make safe a message/card/paper/money and seal it. The envelope protects the message and has room on it in which you can write the name and address of the receiver.

There are many types and kinds of envelopes. Some of them can be finished home with simple paper, scissor and glue. Envelopes are low-priced and be bought easily at very low costs from any market. Even printing envelopes at home from a printer has become an easy job. The variety of envelopes has evolved into more than 100 types of envelopes which have sundry uses and purposes. We will discuss some of the envelopes in this article now.

The first sort of envelope is known as “standard” envelope. This is a standard rectangular envelope that has a typical V shaped seal cut at the flipside. It is made from plain paper and can have changeable colors “ often red, blue, green and yellow. This type of printed envelopes is mainly used in mailing posts and all. Letters can be preserved in these envelopes and a stamp with address will send your message across any country through posts. Like said before, this is the most standardized of all envelopes.

The second type of envelope is called the “convention” type. This is not a typical envelope. It can have various shapes ranging from round to tetragon shapes. Even the sizes of this kind of envelope differ a lot. For corporation sometimes, the envelopes used are large squared shape with an elegant seal. This type of envelope does not necessitate folding of the paper and can seal a whole document “ often A4 size “ completely. These envelopes are used in the commerce for exchanging important letters of confidentiality or often for exchanging contracts.

The third type of envelope is known as “cd envelopes”. Computer is a great discovery and with it the CDs have become equally popular since they are used for storing the data from the computer. A CD is a delicate stuff which needs to be protected from scratches which can ruin it completely. For this purpose CD envelopes came into the market instantly. They are made from plain papers to plastics for better defense. The cd envelope printing can also be completed at home.

Printing and issuing envelopes have grown to be quite a business nowadays. Many printing firms have opened up to provide the great demand of envelopes. The envelopes printing can be ordered on quite economical rates from these firms.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/business-articles/what-uses-do-different-types-of-envelopes-give.htm> -
Article Side

Lester Cliff - About Author:

The cd a envelope printing can be completed at home. Even a printing envelopes at home from a printer has become an easy job.

Article Keywords:

print envelope, printing envelopes, printed envelopes, envelope printing, envelopes printing

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!