People tend to think that when they hear the term live bid online Functionalism(funkcionalismus) that it must be something similar to eBay where individual items are being offered by one person. However, nothing could be farther from the truth. Typically, a live bid online auction will be conducted by a licensed auctioneer who will be furniture bazaars prague(bazary nÃ¡bytku praha) off the contents of an estate, the property from a defunct business, or any other kind of products you may find at your typical, traditional live auction house.

Antiques and Antiquities

One of the reasons many people love going to live auctions is that they have the ability to bid on antique(antik) and even antiquities(staroÅ¾itnosti) that are being liquidated from an estate, museum, or failed business. That's exactly what a live online auction house will sell as well. One of the most popular categories at such live online auctions is, in fact, antique(staroÅ¾itnictvÃ-) and antiquities just as you may find at a traditional auction house.

The merchandise being sold will typically be the entire contents of an estate or a business and thus you can find the same kind of great bargains that you would find at a traditional auction without having to actually go to the auction house. Think of it as making a telephone bid, but in the 21st century.

Office Supplies and Equipment

You may find live online auction houses sell old furniture(prodÃ¡m starÃ½ nÃ¡bytek) off office equipment just like you see on eBay. However if that's the case, they'll probably have a whole pile of used computers, printers, fax machines, and monitors because they came from a business that has gone belly up. The sales will typically be for whole lots of various types of materials just as you may find at a traditional auction house as opposed to the traditional eBay style auction where just one or two of any particular item is being offered for sale.
