Wholesaledeals Scam-A Case of Scammers Crying Scam by Brad Smith

Article published on January 7th 2012 | Business

Wholesaledeals scam? Now, that is a piece of news that most UK trade buyers and sellers would find extremely difficult to digest given their own trading experience with the portal. For the record, wholesaledeals is the fastest growing online trade directory service in the UK and attracts thousands of new members every month with their customer-centric approach and affordable subscription plans.

Those who are floating these absurd rumors about wholesaledeals scam are out of sync with the realities that exist on the UK trading scene. Competitors who have been floating these malicious reports have become the laughing stock of the UK trading community. UK based trade buyers and sellers can clearly see through the malicious intent with which these wholesaledeals scams report are being circulated on the web. They know the inside story too well to be taken up by such wrong reporting.

â€¢ Great Trading Opportunities Await You

Wholesaledeals is the only place where you can buy wholesale and dropship products at margins ranging from 45 to 95 percent. Whatâ€™s more, there is the added assurance that these products will sell on sites such as Amazon and eBay in large quantities to fetch you hefty margins. Wholesaledeals goes even beyond this and ensures a daily supply of fresh and profitable wholesale deals for their members. The deals are always for low priced goods which you can resell at a profit. The specialist researchers on the portal work round-the-clock to unearth the best deals available from verified and reputable suppliers and dropshippers.

You can be sure that there is no wholesaledeals scam here because members have been experiencing the wide range of benefits that wholesaledeals have been offering them for the past seven years. There are tools such as the deal tracker which helps you unearth the best possible wholesale and profitable deals without having to spend time and money on costly research. You get direct and unhindered access to smart and consistently fast selling products in a few clicks.

UK trading community loves the fact that this is an assured way of selling the best quality products through their ecommerce retail store. Single deal tracker comes with a money back guarantee. If the product is not available or costs more than what it has been advertised for, you will get a full refund if the deal does not go through.

â€¢ The Amazing Statistics Punch Holes in the Scam Rumors

The current average mark-up on the website is an amazing 288 percent of wholesale prices. There are more than 12,700 active deals according to information available on the wholesaledeals website. More than 200 new suppliers have been taken on board in the past seven days. The incredible statistics clearly prove that all talk of wholesaledeals scam are just hot air.
