Most people tend to believe that memories from their past are in the form of specific items and artifacts which work as a connection to the past. We then keep all these items and artifacts packed away in cardboard boxes. These memories that we pack into these cardboard boxes may not even be looked at for many more years to come and yet we still feel the need to keep them like a treasured possession. This article is aimed at some of the reasons we feel the need to keep these artifacts. The article will then conclude by informing you on where you can find more information on cardboard boxes.

Why we treasure all of these artifacts

As mentioned previously there are many reasons why we might pack into cardboard boxes not to be seen for more years to come. Some of the reasons that we may retain these items include:

They help keep the connections with the past â€“ it is a well know fact that physical tangible items can help jog a persons memory/memories from the past. These items allow us to remember things in greater detail.

Feel like we are letting go â€“ if the items that you posses are from loved ones that have passed away, it makes you feel more connected to them even if you just store them away in a cardboard box.

The conclusion

As you can see we as humans feel more connected to people from physical tangible items that we keep stored away in these cardboard boxes.
