Article published on June 28th 2012 | Career

Finance is one of the most promising sectors around the world. It recruits millions of people every year. The sector is highly competitive and challenging at the same time. Hence, it demands skilled professionals who can face challenges of the capricious finance market.

Leaving communism behind, almost every country has adopted the concept of free market economy. It has cobbled the way of trade between different nations which has ultimately resulted in the expansion of the finance sector. In addition to this, the business sector is growing at a great pace which is regularly creating finance jobs in the market. Every year certain new finance and accounting jobs are added to the existing ones.

If you are planning you career in finance sector then you must know that which all industries you can serve because it will give you the paved path that you should follow to have a brighter career. Every sector demands different abilities from a professional. Here is the list of some of the domains that has accounting and finance jobs.

Stock Market: It holds plentiful of finance jobs because everyday has a regular flow of liquidity which makes it a billion dollar industry. The equity market demands qualified and skilled professionals to handle the work load. Advisors, share brokers, day trading consultant, etc. are some of the position this sector shelters.

Insurance: With the growing urbanization this sector is enjoying immense growth which houses amazing work avenues for skilled professionals. Most of the people start their career as insurance sales executive that later on reaches the advanced positions like sales manager, etc. In addition to this, insurance sector holds some of the best accounting jobs which include responsibilities like calculating costing, depreciation, reconciling financial discrepancies, etc.

Investment banking: It is the rapidly growing sector which is in high demand of dynamic people who can accept any kind of challenges allied with it. The core work of an investment banker is to help clients to make huge profits from investing in varied commercial activities.

Banking: This sector recruits millions of candidates in India itself. It has some of the best accounting jobs for those who are still planning to drive their career. One can apply for accountants, branch managers, bank tellers, etc. it is one of the highest paying jobs as well.

Apart from these sectors the demand for accounting and finance professionals never reduces in the market. Thus if you invest your career in this area then you will get better returns from your profession.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/career-articles/finance-jobs-offering-lucrative-opportunities.htm - Article Side

Jamesalexjendra - About Author:
James Alexjendrais is an expert Content writer focusing on Finance. He has written many articles for Finance. Check out the a Finance jobs, a Accounting jobs. For more Information, visit this site- http://www.careerbuilder.co.in/

Article Keywords:
Finance jobs, Accounting jobs

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!