Article published on November 26th 2011 | Career

With regard to a nurse assistant, you need to have a good amount of compassion, be a caring person and be willing to put in a whole lot of hard work. If becoming a doctor is something that you can neither afford to study or have the necessary grades to study, then you could always consider becoming a certified nurse assistant instead.

The Job of the Certified Nurse Assistant

You will find many things that the certified nurse assistant has to do each day. The actual duties that the nurse assistant must carry out will be determined by the place of work but in general, taking blood pressure, administering medication, checking vital signs, and bathing patients are just some of the duties. There are going to be other things that the certified nurse assistant will have to do but that will depend on on the employer.

Nurse Assistant and the variety of Person You Should be

As already stated in this article, it will be vital for you to put in a number of hard work if you wish to be a nurse assistant. You must be patient with other people and you will have to have a good personality. It is vital for you to be able to follow orders and it's also vital that you're thorough. You Must are prepared for working long hours. You always need to be careful with everything that you do because at the end of the day, the care of another individual is in your hands. You're going to make a great certified nurse assistant if you are sympathetic to other people and can make them feel better.

Prerequisites for a Certified Nurse Assistant

In order to become a certified nurse assistant, you should start by finding out about local courses to you. Get in touch with your local medical centre or hospital for information about where the nearest certified nurse assistant courses are being held. It's in all probability essential for you to have a high school diploma or a GED if you wish to get onto a certified nurse assistant course. In addition, you need to have a clean criminal record. To complete the course, you will probably have to do about eighty hours of training and between ten and twenty hours of hands on work experience. The state that you're doing the course in will determine the exact amount of training that you've to do.

How Much Will You Earn?

The average nurse assistant salary in the us is about $37,000 although starting salaries are lower at around $26,500. It's necessary to work hard as a nurse assistant but you will be rewarded financially for this. there is numerous places where you can find a job as a nurse assistant similar to a hospital, clinic, doctors surgery or care home for the elderly for example.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/career-articles/how-to-be-a-nurse-assistant.htm - Article Side

Gregory J Gavigan - About Author:
One of the most rewarding careers an individual could work in these days is nursing. Regardless though, actually becoming a nurse can be both frustrating and confusing at times. A quick visit to our web-site though will be enough to answer many of the questions budding nurse may have. Here you'll find a whole raft of questions and queries answered, including on topics including a nursing agencies.

Article Keywords:
nursing jobs,nursing agencies,nursing

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!