Scores between 150-180 show compatibility of thought for both sexes, and a foot in both sexual camps. These people do not show a bias for either male or female thinking and usually demonstrate flexibility in thinking that can be a significant advantage to any group who are going through a problem-solving process. They have the predisposition to make friends with both men and women.

A Final Word

Since the beginning of the 1980s, our knowledge of the brain has surpassed our wildest expectations. US President George Bush proclaimed the 1990s as the Decade of the Brain and we have now entered the Millennium of the Mind. In our discussion of the brain and its various regions we have simplified neuroscience to avoid being too technical, but we are also conscious of not over-simplifying because the brain is a web-like structure of neurons that form complex assemblies of brain cells which make up brain regions.
