Black is one of the most popular colors and will be never out of date. It is a very elegant color that can match many different wedding styles and colors. Black and white, black and silver are all classical styles of weddings. In this season of 2012, black seems to be more popular with red. So why not choose a black bridesmaid dress as your attire? And except to your wedding day, your bridesmaids will have more chances to wear in some special occasions. Then the question is what style of your black bridesmaid clothes? Here are some popular styles of black gowns for you.

Long styles: Full length pattern usually make you appear graceful, especially in black and white. They also help women to show off their charming body contours in some special occasions. Long bridesmaid attire is definitely a good choice if you want to hold a formal wedding. Most of floor length outfits are quite simple because of no or less decoration. But it remains beauty when you wear it. Some are adorned with embellishments such as beads and sequins. No matter what pattern you choose, the long black skirts always make you show your pleasing side.

Tea Length Black Bridesmaids Gowns: Tea length skirts are longer than knee length and not long to the ankles. This length is quite appropriate for semi-formal weddings, such as garden weddings and party themed weddings because this pattern is not as formal as the long and transitional formal ones. Some bridesmaids attire in black of this length is fit for all ages. They are appropriate for teens as well as ladies. If you want tea length skirts as your bridesmaids' skirts in summer, chiffon maybe the best choice. This fabric looks very comfortable and beautiful in some hot days.
