Choosing Ideal Cocktail Dresses for Pine Body Shape by Justting

Article published on June 13th 2012 | Clothing

Have you received several invitations for cocktail parties and dancing parties since the summer is approaching? The season is the right time to hold many modern and free parties. Choosing an ideal cocktail dress is important when you want to show your new image to others, especially women in pine body shapes. So letâ€™s begin with the very start.

Pine body figure means wide hips and bottoms and regular upper body. Proper cocktail dresses could hide the problem lower parts, while the improper ones plays a contrary impact, which means they cannot draw attention away from lower parts, so opting for perfect and flatting cocktail skirts is quite essential. I will introduce some useful tips for you to flatter the pine body shape.

The first one is to choose the right and proper cut of cocktail gowns. In fact, A-line skirts are the best choices for girls and ladies because this style flatters almost every body shape. In addition, it helps to cover the lower part. No matter long or short length you choose, you will look fantastic with a pair of high heels. There are also other styles of attires that will flatter pine body shapes, for example, flowing skirts are also good choices. In a word, it is better to choose the cocktail skirt that floats or skims over your hips and legs as they help to hide the wide parts.

Neckline and waist line are also important when choosing cocktail dresses. Choose a plunging neckline, which helps to grasp attention to your upper body from lower part. Meanwhile, an empire waist is also a good choice. This style of waist is nice for girls with large hips and legs with showing the thinnest part of the whole body. Combined with an A-line cocktail gown, you will look quite beautiful.

Pay attention to accessories. Belts and embellishments can be added on the waist or shoulders to draw othersâ€™ attention and de-emphasize the wide legs. You can choose one shoulder cocktail dresses with some simple but stunning decorations on the shoulder to catch othersâ€™ eyes. Some simple jewelry also plays an important role. Simple but stylish accessories will enhance your beauty.

The last but not the least, choose the right colors. Solid colors are nice for you as they will make you look thinner, such as black, red, green and other bright colors. Black maybe is the best option for some girls because a little black cocktail dress will make you appear elegant as well as attractive.

These are all tips I can give you. Actually, it is not so difficult to find an ideal and cheap cocktail dress for your special nights. More efforts, more choices. You will finally find out the best one for you if you take more efforts.
