Do You Want to Get Fabulous Short Cocktail Dresses? by Cristina

Article published on December 21st 2011 | Clothing

I believe that a variety of girls are fond of wearing short cocktail dresses in the casual or semi-formal parties like prom, homecoming, sweet16 and so on. Generally speaking, those attires are shorter so that they offer you a good chance to show off your slim legs. Especially, they are worth collecting in the closet for the petite girls to create a taller look. Either way, the outstanding features will make they are quite seductive so that they are appealing to numbers of women. They come in various styles and you have got a wide range of selection, but it doesnâ€™t mean that any style that you are interested in can make you become the center of attention. The key is to make sure it can enhance your best features and conceal the parts of your body that you are not confident of.

The popular silhouette of cocktail dress varies from A-line, princess to sheath. Sheath is a flattering design that is special for women with hourglass figures while the A-line can flatter almost all body shapes. So, A-line is easy to become a favorite for any girl. If you are not satisfied with your figure, it is a good idea to land it on the list of your best options. It is worthy of noting that there are varying lengths of those attires including knee-length and cocktail-length, which are usually available everywhere. So, sometimes, when choosing, it is necessary to consider the formality of the event. For example, if you are invited to a party through an email or over the phone, there is no doubt that it is wise to opt for a casual outfit. Otherwise, the formal attire is necessary.

A popular trend in 2012 short cocktail wear is the colorful mini dress. Blocks of fabrics in contrasting colors are sewn together. Colors like watermelon red and tangerine, sea green and turquoise are quite trendy in this kind of gown. Since this attire is eye-catching, accessories should be simple. Choose color block cocktail apparel that has darker colors on the lower area of the body if you have a big tummy or wide hips.

When it comes to the fabrics, in a general way, you will find plenty of kinds like chiffon, silk, tulle, silk, satin as well as taffeta. Go for the fabric that is comfortable to wear and dance. In addition, donâ€™t ignore the season which also affects the choice of the color. It is common sense that in the cold season, we would like to select the clothing made from heavy materials. At the same time, some fabrics have a crucial effect on highlight your figure so they need your attention.

In addition, you need to keep some guides in mind when you are wearing your cheap cocktail dresses. For instance, lots of popular elements are added to the design in order to meet the demands of the girls who are in pursuit of the fashion. When you are going to take part in some cocktail party, you had better stay away from the design with sparking sequins. The reason is that they are more formal for such occasions.
