Being different from everyone else is an aspiration for each one of us. We try to be different from others in several ways- the way we eat, the things we eat, the clothes we wear and even the way we think. Just to be perceived as â€˜differentâ€™, we try and think â€œout of the boxâ€• to impress others is of course nothing wrong with this and this peculiar trait of human being has in fact always resulted in various discoveries and innovations of different scales. But for a normal person like you and me, an average college student or an average employee in a corporation how is it possible to be unique amidst the crowds? How can we make our presence prominent and make ourselves noticeable? We donâ€™t want to lose ourselves in the crowd and we need to find out a way which lets us be ourselves and be different at the same time.

Our clothing is what is first noticed about us. The way we dress and the kind of clothes that we wear tell a lot about our lifestyle and personalities. Our dressing style is a window to our attitude and our outlook towards life. Thus we can experiment with our clothes to display our individual precepts in life. It was always thought that designing clothes was always prerogative of the high-end dress designers who have access to every clothing material. But with the introduction of the options to customize t-shirts, this has become an easy option for almost everyone. Even a student with limited resources can work easily with the online tools to make personalized t-shirts.

You can design your own t-shirts easily with any design or graphic of your choice. You can play around endlessly with innumerable colors and can come with anything that takes your fancy. There are customizable sweatshirts which again can become a canvas for your creativity. With these customized t-shirts and sweatshirts, you can let the world know what you think about them, you can support a social cause, you can declare your allegiance to a particular music group or genre, and you can support your favorite sports team with these t-shirts! Thereâ€™s a lot to do. All you need is an access to the internet and a creative bent of mind and you are all set to become a designer. By implementing your unique ideas, you can create a different identity for yourself.
