How to look out for your Perfect Prom Dress by Zaarah

Article published on December 20th 2011 | Clothing

There is no denying that every girl wants to look truly gorgeous and grab attention on this big night. But there are a few important factors you should bear in mind when choosing a prom dress.

You should start reading fashion magazines and visit garment stores as early as three to four months before your prom. View some celebrity red carpet events and closely observe their styles. Chances are you may just be able to find a similar prom dress in your local boutique. Try to pick a prom dress that is distinctly different from what everyone else chooses Make sure the prom dress you select is of the right fit and you feel really comfortable wearing it. This is because you are going to be dancing, sitting, eating and be constantly moving around. In your over enthusiasm for the event, do not end up wearing the wrong dress however glamorous.

If you have a slim figure, you may look fabulous in a sheath-style dress that shows off your entire body shape. If you are curvaceous, you must consider an A-line dress that will make your waist prominent and minimize your hips and thighs. If you are short and petite, then look for a short dress that will appear long on you.

Quite often, it will become necessary that you obtain approval from your parents on your prom dress. Therefore, the basic rule that you should follow while choosing the prom dress is to go for the most suitable rather than the most stylish or sexy one.

If you are dreaming to look like an adorable princess, you can opt for ball gown style. A traditional ball gown that features lovely contemporary details will add a romantic touch to the prom dress. Strapless ball gown with the sweetheart bodice will make you look ravishingly beautiful.

If you want to be conspicuous and appear distinctly different from others, you can try unconventional prom dresses. You can choose bold printed dresses or an edgy cut dress that features eye-popping open back and unique embellishments. If you want some kind of short prom dresses, do remember to opt for the one that can accentuate your glamour and make heads turn.

As regards fabric finish, please know that shinier finishes tend to bring out figure flaws while matte finishes will obscure any drawback features. The right color of prom dresses will be the one that matches your skin tone. If you are endowed with a snow-white skin, you can choose almost any kind of colors. However, if you are one with dark skin tone, some bright colors, like white, yellow, and red can lighten your skin greatly. Neon colors will most certainly make you strikingly different in the crowd if only you have the courage to wear them.

Try to shop for prom dress at least a month or two in advance. Remember that most prom dresses require alterations for a perfect fit, and you need to allow enough time to complete these alterations to your satisfaction. At the same time, do not purchase your prom dress too far in advance, as before the big event you can easily lose or gain weight. An undersized or an over-sized prom dress can make you look clumsy and it is essential the dress wraps your body admirably well.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/clothing-articles/how-to-look-out-for-your-perfect-prom-dress.htm - Article

Side

Zaarah - About Author:
The author is expert for evening dresses, prom dresses. She has written articles like party dresses. For information visit our site http://www.idressonline.com

Article Keywords:
evening dresses, evening gowns, prom dresses, cocktail dresses, little black dress, party dresses

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!