Article published on July 11th 2012 | Clothing

Girls are worried a lot since they have received the invitation of some parties now. Of course they are not worried about the time, theme and place, and what they fear is how to draw everybodyâ€™s attention. Precisely speaking, they need fancy party dresses for the event. Fortunately, dress code nowadays is not as strict as past, which means girls have more choices than before. Yet some fashion guidelines are also useful now, so learn more information about the party is very helpful. At least, it will help you to opt for the right skirt.

Choosing the gowns according to the time is one of the most important guidelines. Some parties are held in daytime, such as luncheon and afternoon tea. In such occasions, what you wear should be more conservative. You may wear office suit in reception to show your profession. Or a short length skirt that falls just at the knee with a strapless neckline is proper for almost any occasion in daytime. A figure-hugging skirt, such as sheath dress, in tea length is also the appropriate style. Color and fabric are also should be taken consideration. Less bright colors and less formal fabrics are better.

If you are invited to attend events that held after 5 oâ€™clock p.m., another style of party gown should be chosen, which is cocktail skirt. This style is more appropriate in evening parties, such as evening wedding ceremonies and dance parties. There are so many styles of cocktail skirts for you to choose actually and they are more modern. Usually, short length is also preferred by girls because it is very convenient and comfortable when walking and dancing. You can choose any style, such as strapless neckline, sweetheart style, halter neck and cap sleeves you like. The fabric maybe is more formal than daytime wear. Chiffon, tulle and satin are nice for you.

If the invitation you received requests formal wear or black-tie attire, then you should pay more attention to it. Although there are many options, it is still not easy to find out a proper formal or evening attire. Stunning cocktail skirts are the perfect choices, while longer and more elaborate attires are better. That is to say, it is better to styles that hemlines reach to the floor. A-line style, mermaid style and ball gowns are mostly chosen for ladies. A-line style flatter almost every body figures, so it is the most popular style. Mermaid style nowadays is designed with latest cut will no longer restrict the movement. Ball dress is the style that has old history, while now; it seems to be removed from the fashion trends for a long time. However, it is really appropriate when attending wedding ceremonies or proms.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/clothing-articles/party-dresses-types-for-your-party-nights-2012.htm - Article Side

FionaLee - About Author:
Looking for a party dresses 2013 from cocktaildressshops.co.uk. You can find a purple party dress, a line, strapless, and chic a open back party dresses for 2012 and 2013 events.

Article Keywords:
party dresses 2013, purple party dress, open back party dresses

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!