First of all, when you receive the invitation, you should see if the dance is more formal or casual. In others words, it is necessary to consider the formality. Generally speaking, the more official the occasion is, the longer the clothing should be. So, for the first condition, it is a good idea to opt for a long formal dress. You have got a variety of options of such designs including the A-line, princess, mermaid, etc. to the contrary, the short cocktail dress can work well for your casual dance.

When you decide the silhouette of your attire, at the same time, donâ€™t ignore your body shape that will play an important role in your choice. For example, if you feature pear shaped figure, there is no doubt that you should land the style that can enhance your slim upper part of body and conceal the lower part on the list of your best choice. The A-line with some dramatic embellishments on the natural waist is just for you besides the princess style.
