Article Side

Save money with continuous ink supply systems by Jack

Article published on April 27th 2012 | Computer

When you buy a printer, no matter what kind of printer, it can be an Epson printer, HP or Canon, it doesnâ€™t matter the company that had manufactured the printer, you will see that the manufacturer always advice you to use genuine cartridges. They say that if you do not use genuine cartridges, that sometimes may cost as much as the printer, you will lose your warrantee. This strategy makes people think if they should buy genuine cartridges, aftermarket cartridges, or the best solution: continuous ink supply system.

No more cartridges that are expensive and when you need them the most, you can have them the next day, so you canâ€™t finish printing. You cannot buy several cartridges because the ink may dry before you use the cartridge, so you need to check your ink level constantly in order not to run out of ink. Instead of spending money on cartridges, you can buy bulk ink systems and no more cartridges for your printer. Buying a bulk ink system may be less expensive than buying a new cartridge, and you need several cartridges a year.

If you want to invest in the quality of your prints, you can buy quality ink for your continuous ink supply system. People usually say that using other type of cartridges than the original one can make the quality of the prints very poor, but this is not true. With a continuous ink supply system you will get almost the same printing quality as with original cartridges. You cannot see the differences between the two types of cartridges, so forget about the expensive genuine cartridges.

Now you can save money and have similar quality prints with CISS. No more cartridges that can be expensive and you can get lower quality prints if you buy aftermarket cartridges. If you are constantly refilling your cartridges you will see that the colors wonâ€™t be the same, and after 3 or 4 months you have to change the cartridge because the ink will dry. This may happen in a shorter time if you do not use your printer so often. You may realize that you have enough ink in your cartridge, but the ink is dry.

With continuous ink supply system you can save up to 95% money than if you have to buy constantly cartridges for your printer. The strategy of the printer manufacturers is to say that your printer wonâ€™t work with another type of cartridges. But what if this isnâ€™t true? You can check on the internet for your printer model and see how you can install a continuous ink supply system. Now you have an alternative to traditional cartridges that is less expensive and you can still get quality prints with CISS.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/computer-articles/save-money-with-continuous-ink-supply-systems.htm - Article Side

Jack - About Author:
Instead of spending money on cartridges, you can buy bulk ink systems and a no more cartridges for your printer. You have a lot of benefits if you are going to buy a a continuous ink supply system and you can save a lot of money.

Article Keywords:
continuous ink supply system,no more cartridges,bulk ink systems,cartridges,save money

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!