The Best Antivirus Software for your Laptop by Peter Evans

Article published on January 11th 2012 | Computer

If you have a laptop and regularly go online you will need to get some form of antivirus software. It can often be difficult to know which software would be best for your individual requirements. We will explore the best antivirus software for your laptop so you can stay secure whilst browsing the net.

There is a variety of laptop antivirus software available to buy either online and can even be downloaded directly onto your computer. Many antivirus comparison sites can compare various deals to ensure you find the right software for your laptop.

One of the most renowned and viable online security providers for online protection is Norton as it provides security for both laptops and Netbooks. Norton Internet Security 2011 gives you a comprehensive system which works against viruses and threats which might come up when you are online. In addition it safeguards you against online identity theft and keeps your personal details secure which is beneficial if you use email and online banking.

It also includes parental control so you can control which websites your children use. The total antispyware and antivirus ensures that you will be fully protected whilst using the internet, which can provide you with peace of mind whilst online. The reasonably priced Norton Internet Security is well worth the money and hassle if you were to develop a virus on your laptop.

McAfee is a direct contender to Norton and is an award winning option for antivirus software which includes antispam and email protection and helps safeguard against potential viruses whilst surfing the internet. McAfee has a two way firewall protection which helps to stop spyware and viruses to ensure that it does not affect your PC. This innovative antivirus software provides you with simple software to use and helps you to be rest assured that you are surfing the net securely at all times.

For those of you who want reasonably priced software you may want to consider AVG Internet Security which helps to block spam, fight threats and keep viruses at bay. This software offers the innovative feature of built in identity protection which helps to combat online identity theft and keeps you safe while assessing your emails and checking online banking. In addition for those of you who enjoy social networking sites there is a link checker to ensure that you are not on fake version of a popular social networking site.

If you want an all round total protection for your laptop with added features such as parental control then you may want to consider Norton Antivirus as it has a range of options not just for laptops but also for Netbooks and can be used with 3 computers. However if you are looking an alternative to Norton then McAfee would be your best bet as it provides effective virus protection which can help to safeguard your personal details whilst surfing the internet. For those who want a standard virus antivirus then AVG can provide you with sufficient protection for your laptop.
