What will excite you the most when it comes to playing the online racing games from the horse racing genre is that, they have put together a fabulous platter of simulations for the best known horses from the racing history. Meticulously handpicked from the old 19th century and the current 20th century thoroughbreds, the games will offer you more than 5000 thoroughbred options to choose and race.

Where on one hand we witness the comparatively shorter racing tenure for the new generation thoroughbreds, the horses from the centuries prior to this were more durable, sturdy and tolerant. But the horse racing games makes them immortal. No horses are lost, injured or retired. That is the beauty of it; all the incredible racehorses from times old and new can now stay on forever. The players can race them on variety of race tracks without the worry of injuring them; a fall or two, and they jump up right back ready to resume racing with the same enthusiasm and determination.

However, the games have been designed so precisely that every horse follows his racing pattern and style. That is accompanied with their acceleration capability, need to find enough ground or display incredible speed topping the Beyer Speed Figures; all this is characteristic of every racehorse carefully captured in these games that may limit your manoeuvring them into a different racing style.

But again, the players have an amazing feature that catapults them out of these limitations; breed your own foal with the attributes you want them to inherit from their sires and dams. The accuracy in the inbuilt horses created from real references is to provide the players maximum realistic experience, including the limitations of each racehorse. These online racing games do not intend to provide racing experience that merely exhibits superhuman speeds or exaggerated features; the games are for the closest possible experience of the sport considering every aspect associated with it.

The game provides a window to the real equestrian world that comprises of diverse activities ranging from acquiring a race horse, analysing their strengths and weaknesses, training them for different distances and then participating in online tournaments that allow the players to win real prizes. Oh yes, the prizes are real, won depending upon the playersâ€™ performances on the racing tracks and track histories.

To top it all, the races are paired up with online messaging service. It is their common platform for members of the game to interact; use it to share race feedbacks, discuss strategies and also learn from various experts, trainers and jockeys who also participate in the games to gauge their stand in future competitions in reality.

Itâ€™s a class apart how a racing game available for free, online, in downloadable version as well, provide you such a detailed sneak-peak into the world of one of the highest money laundering games that sometimes is unreachable to many due to its extravagance. But since horse racing supports a great fan following around the globe, the game must find its way for each and every dedicated follower. And internet provides it the best medium.
