World of War craft is an MMORPG game full of mobs, items and quests thereby making the players to find it difficult to reach each and every level and here comes the role of WOW leveling guides that are capable of offering the required tips to the players for quickly reaching levels in the game. There are guides that enable players to reach first 80 levels as fast as possible. There are thousands of websites selling different leveling guides these days and when searching for them on the World Wide Web, the searcher can come across a number of them. Among the different types available in the market, an alliance guide will enable the players to reach the first 80 levels just within the first week of their initial play. Therefore, gamers looking for reaching levels can make use of these sorts of guides. Whenever a newbie or an experienced player wishes to purchase a guide, he can make sure whether it has the following features

It is better to go for a guide that offers not only in-game mode of tips, but also text version of the tips either in word or in PDF format. This is because the game is frequently updated and if the game is updated and the in-game mode stops functioning; the gamer can get tips from the PDF format or word format files. Above all, when they are given in this format, the gamers can view them as and when they are free and can remember some tips when they start playing the game even when if the in-game mode stops functioning for one reason or another.

It is also better to avoid a Wow leveling guide that offer hints in the PDF format alone and do not offer in-game version. This is because an in-game mode will enable the player to get to know where to go next and in this case, the user need not minimize the window just for reading the guide in PDF format in another window.

The guide should have enough screen shots in such a way that players can find and reach their goals at a faster pace. It is better to opt for the leveling guide that offers free life-time updates in such a way that whenever some new techniques are found by the owner, the guide will be automatically updated without the player paying any extra amount of money for the same. It should have detailed quest description and class specific quests as well.
