Love on a Boat: All Inclusive Cruise Honeymoons for Newlyweds by Diamond Poli

Article published on February 21st 2012 | Cruises

These days, newlyweds have endless choices when it comes to what they will do or where they will go on their honeymoon. A lot of couples decide to travel to foreign lands in search of romance, and peace. Some like to stay at luxury resorts, some go up to mountainous areas, and others like visiting majestic cities in the Old World. Many newlyweds like to travel during their honeymoons. If you are a newlywed, or will be in the future, why not take a cruise and travel to several destinations at once?

Most cruises which last for five or more days stop by several diverse ports along their route. Going on a cruise during your honeymoon will take you to many exotic places. You may go on a fabled transatlantic cruise and see the splendors of Europe. Or alternately, you may go south and visit the white sand beaches of the Bahamas. If the northern wilderness is your idea of heaven, you may want to take a cruise past the sprawling glaciers of Alaska. The choice of destinations is truly endless.

When going on a cruise, almost everything is arranged for you. Agencies that arrange cruise vacations for their clients can take care of everything for youâ€"from tickets, transportation, port activities, to spa reservations. This specialized service ensures that your vacation remains stress-free. What awaits you is a fun, relaxing, and effortless trip full of pleasure and bliss.

Make sure to ask your travel agent about his/her all inclusive cruise packages. They make a great honeymoon choice as they include most of your traveling expenses in one overall fee. An all inclusive package can cover airfare, pre and post cruise hotel accommodations, transportation and sometimes tours and other onshore activities. Each package can differ and your travel agent will be able to show you many package possibilities.

There are so many activities onboard the cruise ship itself, as well as on shore excursions. You and your beloved can have a great time watching entertainment, taking dance lessons, playing games, swimming, and enjoying many other activities onboard. In addition, depending on which port you pull into, you can go shopping, sailing, kayaking, and horseback riding.

With all these vibrant activities, this does not mean that you will not be able to have any quiet time alone with your beloved. You may enjoy all the gaiety with a Carnival Cruise Package, yet still find the time to be secluded. If you would like, you can even stay inside your suite all day long.

A Cruise Travel Package will surely calm you after the excitement of a big wedding. After all the nerve-wracking stress of planning the wedding, you probably will need a relaxing getaway. A honeymoon cruise will bring you lasting memories;, a wonderful way to start your lives together.
