GOJO foam dispenser is available as a touch-free soap dispenser too which curtails the spread of any microbial bacteria. This unit comes in with a trouble free dispensing system of the soap and allows for great cleaning of the hands and can be mounted on the wall at a highly convenient position so that the users can spot it very easily too. The touch-free system will automatically dispense off a set amount of the foam soap thereby cutting down on any waste of the soap too that may be the case otherwise.

There is absolutely nothing for the user to touch when he is using the touch free soap dispenser. The foam dispenser is available in different capacities and hence based on the requirement the buyer can choose the perfect volume so as to provide for all the people who will use the foam dispenser. These soap dispensers hold 800 ml, 1250 ml and 2000ml of the soap and come in invariably with the portion control feature which will reduce waste. There is also the rugged, high capacity PRO 5000 dispenser which offers unmatched performance. It also comes in with an easy to load, handle and store refills too. And in addition to that, the unit also comes in with a fresh dispensing valve which will ensure that there are absolutely no clogs or leaks after every usage. With the help of the portion control dispensing system one can ensure that per wash cost is kept at a bare minimum.

Germs are omnipresent, and this means that there are multiple chances to contract one form of illness or other. The touch free soap dispenser is found to be highly helpful in eliminating contact with germs that spread through easily when many people use the same soap dispenser. The highly health conscious people view the touch free soap dispenser as a great blessing in disguise. The advancements made in sanitation technology have given us this peace of mind. Coming to think of the practical point here, when the soap dispensers are placed in restrooms, it is but natural that all the people who enter it would handle it to use it for hygiene purposes. But there is something else happening at that end as more and more number of germs are spreading through the contact. However, the touch free soap dispenser eliminates all such fears and provides a sterile environment and does not encourage any spread of fine disease spreading agents.

The soap dispenser will remain neat and clean, absolutely untouched by people and by germs too. It does not take much time for the bacteria to multiply and spread. The soap dispensers are absolutely easy to use and the touch free even more. Frequent refills make it all the more convenient too. If you are on the lookout for getting cost effective and high quality hygiene solutions, then the GOJO foam soap dispenser is an ideal option. Supply Line Direct is a one stop shop for a myriad range of GOJO foam soap dispenses and refills and many more other products too.
