Best Kept Seduction Secrets Exposed by Ethanvalentino

Article published on February 22nd 2012 | Dating

Women all over the world have a variety of turn-on and turn- offs which comes into play as soon as they come across a new guy. Though these vary significantly from woman to woman, but one thing can be guaranteed that women are never turned on by a clingy man and itâ€™s practically impossible to hear a woman say "I love guys that are clingy and keep texting and calling my phone!" Seduction secrets are as much about knowing what not to do and not to say as they are about what you should do and say. The fact is that women tend to see needy men as individuals below their social standing and rarely date them seriously if at all.

Blame it on their genes or environment, but most men are programmed by default to act in a manner that makes them appear needy even without their realizing it. For instance, it is quite common for guys to constantly keep contact with the girl once she agrees to date them. They keep calling or texting her and find all kind of opportunities to run into them. Too much contact kills attraction faster than anything else. It is important to restrict your contact to no more than once a day preferably through texting or telephone to fix a date.

Another pediment in seduction is the jealous nature of men. They become too possessive too soon without realizing that it makes them appear insecure and needy. One of the best Seduction secrets is to act as if you donâ€™t care a bit if she talks or dance with other men, even if you do care. It will show you as someone who is secure in the knowledge that he is better than other men.

Saying NO to a girl when you do not really want to do something is actually a good thing as needy men tend to give in to the wiles of women every time. Donâ€™t agree with her out of the fear that saying no will destroy your chances. It will project you as a real man immune to blackmails and insecurities.
