Aruba is a popular tourist destination for those who love beaches and sea for it offers white sand beaches, turquoise seas and warm waters. Aruba is an island nation located 15 miles of the Venezuelan coast. Aruba enjoys a tropical climate with its temperature staying nearly same at 81Â°F all round the year. If Aruba sounds to be an interesting holiday destination, you could check out flights to Aruba, which operate all round the year. Also, by booking well in advance you could take advantage of inexpensive flight tickets on the offer.

Water Activities in Aruba

Aruba being an island nation is full of natural beaches, which are suitable for an array of sea and beach related activities to enjoy. Most popular beaches in Aruba include Eagle Beach, Hadikurari Beach, Arashi Beach, Andicuri Beach, and Boca Catalina and so on. The Eagle Beach is considered amongst the top ten best beaches in the world. The Arashi Beach offers calm waters and huts for shade to relax and unwind on its white sandy beaches. The sea water at Boca Catalina is shallow and full of fish, making it an ideal spot for snorkeling. The Andicuri beach is ideal for surfing but not for swimming for sea currents are tough while the waves are equally huge and strong.

Exploring Aruba

Aruba provides an interesting adventure options on account of its dessert type terrain. You could visit the Arikok National Park, which provides valuable insights on Aruba and its geography. Arubaâ€™s landscape is characterized by lava formation, quartz diorite formation and limestone formation. Do make it a point to have a look at the paintings done by Caquetio Indians on granite rocks, which are almost 1000 years old. Mount Jamanota within the national park is Arubaâ€™s highest point at 620 feet. If you love wildlife, a visit at this park will give you an opportunity to watch burrowing owls, whiptail lizards, Aruban parakeet and local rattlesnake and other interesting animal and bird species.

Culinary Vacations in Aruba

Aruba boasts of more than 100 resorts and independent restaurants offering you with a variety of cuisine options. You can taste the local fare and also time tried cuisine such as Japanese, Continental, Spanish, Argentinean and much more. The local Caribbean fare on the offer includes mahi-mahi, local goat stew and keshi yana and wahoo. You could catch flights to Aruba to coincide with the happening of annual culinary events in Aruba such as Aruba Culinary Festival, Aruba Food, Wine & Art Festival, Aruba Wine Extravaganza, and Food & Wine Festival at Arawak Garden after checking out their latest schedules.
