If you love shopping, you must have heard the name â€˜Bangkokâ€™. Officially the capital of Thailand, the cityâ€™s a shopperâ€™s paradise with a matchless array of shopping spots capacious enough to cater ar shopping freak. It doesnâ€™t matter what you want to buy, be it shoes, cloths or artificial jewelry, shopping in Bangkok is a lifetime experience. From world-class malls to buzzing night markets, and street-side vendors to traditional flea market, the city has myriads of shopping options to satiate oneâ€™s shopping fantasy to the core.

During your Bangkok trip, head-on to the tourist areas of Silom and Sukhumvit to experience the ultimate shopping bliss. Lined up with a number of stalls selling a quality range of goods at attractive prices, Sukhumvit is an ideal spot to begin with. This area is famous for shopping of clothing, DVDs, handicrafts, furnishing, watches and jewelry. Apart from that, night markets of Silong and Patpong are also worth visiting. These markets are active only at night, though they attract a great number of tourists as well as locals. Bargain hard, as vendors here ask around 3-4 times higher price than the normal one. The popular buys at these markets are household furnishing, traditional artifacts and clothing.

If you wish to buy cheap clothing, the area of Pratunam on Petcheburi is the places you must head towards. This bustling area is filled, to its maximum capacity, with textile vendors selling a variety of garments at highly attractive rates. Opposite to that is the Panthip Plaza known for quality shopping of electronics and computer goods. The long stretch of high-end shopping malls from Sukhumvit to Siam Square is undoubtedly an eye-opener for first timers. Gleaming shopping arcades such as Robinson, Gaysom Plaza, World Central Plaza and the Emporium look impressive jam packed with tourists as well as the locals shopping an astounding range of goods. Apart from that, Mahboonkrong , well known as MBK, is a great place for cheaper goods. For those looking for beaded jewelry, trousers and cosmetic goods, Khao San Road is a place to go.

So, next time when you plan to travel this buzzing city of Thailand, make sure to carry some extra suitcases, as lively markets here will make you want to shop till you drop. Moreover, a range of dining avenues here offer food to suit every plate. From local Thai cuisines to international dishes, Bangkok will satiate your food appetite to the core. Hotels and nightlife options here offer the guests quality lodging facilities and great entertainment. Buying a Bangkok tour package from a reliable travel agent, you can perfectly plan your Bangkok trip. Internet is the best option to know more about Bangkok holiday or Thailand package. Visit some reputed travel sites, and choose a package to meet your needs.
