African safari holidays are of many kinds and they will manage to turn all your dreams of a perfect holiday into reality. By making the right choice depending on the things you love doing, you will find the holiday most enjoyable and full of fun that you will come back to the continent over and over again.

Canoeing safari: this is one of the most interesting safari holidays in Africa. You will get the chance to drift silently within river banks and to where the animals are. It is an interesting way of viewing wildlife and it becomes more fun since you will be doing it from the water body. Other animals will actually find you in the rivers as they come to have their fill. You can add a spice to the safari by choosing to camp under the stars as you enjoy listening to the lions roaring in the night. It can be a safari full of magical moments.

Walking safari: just like the name suggests, you will be on foot throughout the safari. Even though it can seem to be taxing, to those who love adventure it is the best option. This is because the safari will bring you closest to the smells, sounds and sights of Africa. It is a safari holiday that deserves more than a day to ensure that you enjoy everything there is on offer. It is the best way to appreciate aspects of the amazing eco system.

Balloon safari: you will enjoy floating peacefully over the bushes and animals as you enjoy the sight. The safari is basically incredible and can also be as romantic as ever as you will manage to view nature from a whole new perspective. After the floating, you will be served breakfast as you go over the fresh fun memories you have just made. It is an experience you will want to have over and over again.

Family safaris: they are well cut to suit every member of the family including children. It is not just a safari meant for fun but it is also very educative especially for the children. When choosing among the many options, it is good that you go for the best in terms of keeping you and your children entertained and comfortable throughout your stay in Africa.

Overland safaris: they are safaris involving travelling across the beautiful landscapes and is most suitable for groups. The tours are a great way of exploring wildlife, culture and people as well as different sceneries. This is perhaps the most economic and safe safari you could ever choose.
