Enjoy magnificent attractions in Venice by Aron Howard

Article published on July 20th 2012 | Destinations

Venice is a beautiful city. It is a famous destination for lovers and couples. Visitors coming here are unable to decide what attractions they should see and what they should avoid. There are so many attractions. Every nook and corner of the city speaks volumes. These days, many leading carriers, offer low fares that are a great help to all those who would like to make a plan to travel to this city at affordable rates. Flight tickets for cheap is available to this city.

The Grand Canal

Visitors can enjoy a glimpse of this picturesque Grand Canal when traveling to the hotel from the airport. There are airport water taxis to take visitors to their hotel, and this is an enjoyable ride. The length of the canal runs about 2 and 3rd miles. To enjoy scenic attractions located close by, visitors can hop in a gondola or a vaporetta. The ride on a gondola is appreciated by all especially lovelorn couples. Several flights to Venice like Air France are available these days.

The Rialto Bridge

While enjoying a gondola ride, a view to the Rialto Bridge can also be enjoyed. The bridge dates back to more than 800 years, but the present day bridge was constructed in the latter half of 1580s. A new bridge has been constructed on the same spot. One can take a boat ride and travel below it or can take a stroll over it. There are some shops located on the bridge and visitors love to browse through the products on offer. Souvenirs to take back home can be purchased here. This market is liked by locals as well as visitors coming from other countries. Visitors can book cheap tickets to Venice and reach this marvelous location.

St Mark's Campanile

The city boasts of St Mark Square as well as St Markâ€™s Campanile. This is a beautiful clock tower, and in Italian, it is also referred to as the Campanile di San Marco. The tower is huge, and it can be seen from every corner of the city. Like the Rialto Bridge, this spot has sported a clock tower since times immemorial, but the latest one that is seen today is 900 years old. The clock tower has withstood the tests of time. In the first half of the 16th century, there was some damage to this clock tower due to an earthquake. The tower was on the verge of falling. The clock tower was brought back to its present position after massive restoration job. In 1900s, the tower again collapsed. This time the tower was rebuilt from scratch and just identical to the original tower. One can have a magnificent view of the St Markâ€™s Square from the top of the tower. Wide arrays of cheap flights to Venice are available these days.

Besides these attractions, there are several chapels and cathedrals that are architectural marvels. Visitors can experience a sense of calm and peace in these chapels.
