Cozumel Mexico can be found nestled in the Caribbean Sea off the coast of mainland Mexico. This beautiful island has some small cities but most of the local population is found in San Miguel. There are around 100 thousand locals that populate this city which is a mix of ethnic culture, pulsating nightlife, lots of shopping and modern facilities. Since this is the busiest city you can venture anywhere else in Cozumel Mexico and enjoy the quiet minus the crowds, especially since much of the island consists of beaches.

There is plenty to do when visiting Cozumel Mexico. For catching some rays and enjoying the beach that offers white sand for walking around in, head to the northern part of the island. Here you will find what is known as Passion Island. You can stretch out on the beach on a towel or sway in a hammock. The water in Cozumel Mexico is inviting for cooling off in with a swim or even by enjoying the water trampoline. There are other beaches as well and information pertaining to these can be sought at the place of stay.

Some of the best snorkeling can be experienced in Cozumel Mexico. The north and south reefs are absolutely breathtaking and will leave you wanting more. Corals are abound and there are both soft and hard ones like brain corals for close viewing. Tropical fish in Cozumel Mexico will sometimes swim with you while enjoying the reefs as will the other sea creatures like octopi, eels, crabs, sea anemones and so on. While many varieties are found in other parts of the world as well there are a few which are unique only to this island.

Have you ever wanted to swim with dolphins or even a sea lion? In Cozumel Mexico you can actually swim with both. There is an area set up that will tell you about the lovely creatures. Once you have learned about them you can then step into the water and enjoy them up close and personal. At Cozumel Mexico the sea lions like to be held and show off while being watched while the dolphins are waiting for you to grab hold of them and go for a ride.

If you are a fan on flying through the air then climb on one of the Zip Lines in Cozumel Mexico. Once all strapped in get ready to zip across 2400 feet. Make sure to take the time and look around while in the air. On one side are the inviting ocean and all the colors that blend together nicely while on the other side is the vast jungle with the big daring trees. When done zipping through the air make sure to go for a walk in the jungle while at Cozumel Mexico. Who knows what you might get to see, so make sure your camera is ready for snapping the pictures.

Not only is Cozumel Mexico known for the great outdoor adventures and oceans but, there are many celebrations that are held throughout the year. The locals just love putting on these celebrations for everyone. Carnival is one of the biggest ones put on in February. The main street in the city is closed and the dances begin. There are parades for all ages to enjoy while everyone dances around in their costumes. Another huge celebration is held in September. On this day everyone is celebrating their independence. There are parades followed by many different parties. As it starts getting dark, the sky lights up with a beautiful display of fireworks. So the next time you need a place for escaping to without the entire city hustle and bustle head over to Cozumel Mexico.
