It has often been said that the small things in life bring much happiness rather than the larger things; such is the case with Goa too. Although it is Indiaâ€™s smallest state, it has been the largest revenue generator of India and a major part of it is due to tourism. Thus one can safely say that Goa is a must visit place for all travelers in India.

The sun slowly rising from the unending water horizon spreading warmth across the land or the same sun slowly going into the sea becoming two and then disappearing all of a sudden, giving way to the colourful man made lights that adorn the nocturnal Goa is a sight to be seen. The white and golden sands that adorn the beaches like platinum and gold is a sight one is always reminiscent of when memories of Goa flood you. It can be very well said it is the Indian Caribbean.

This small state of India holds enormous fun and frolic for all age groups. A small place with so much to do is rarely found and should be one of the places to visit before one kickâ€™s the bucket. It holds a small gift that multiples once opened. Activities in Goa range from testosterone secreting water and air sports to rejuvenating wildlife sanctuaries. Something for everyone to pack as memories is available here.

Like a small atom bomb has a colossal impact, so does this smallest state of India. A holiday well deserved is a holiday here and Goa holiday packages provide you the trigger. So much to do, see and enjoy here that to write about it would produces volumes and volumes of books however the must do and see things here are :-

Beaches of Goa- The numerous golden and white beaches here is a sight to be seen and enjoyed. Sit on the beaches and feel the cool sea breeze caressing you, while the soft lapping sounds of the sea play music to your ears. The sunrise and sun set seen here is phenomenal and will remain your memories bri8nging you a peace of mind every time you remember them. The must see beaches in here are as follows

a) Goa Cavelosseum beach- this is a white sand beach that is quiet, cool and a spectacular view can be relished from here.

b) Goa beach- this beach is a contrast to the white sand beach of Goa Cavelosseum as the sand here is golden and a warm feeling rushes through you as a stroll is taken here.

c) Agonda beach- this is a beach well known for it clean waters and tranquility.

Some other beaches worth visiting are Anjum beach, Morjim beach etc

Discos/parties- do not forget to party and have the time of of your life here. This is one of the best places to party in. Goa is famous for the discos and parties. Boogie with your friends till sunrise and drink like fishes.

A small package full of surprises is a definite satisfaction. One cannot define the stress free leisured stay here, a must visit place. Though small it has so many intricate layers of fun woven that one needs to visit and experience it to really feel the magic.
