Have You Seen the Field Museum in Chicago Recently?

by DJ Willis

Article published on February 22nd 2012 | Destinations

The midwestern hub city of Chicago is filled with points of interest that attract people all over the country and also the world. You can find first class museums and art galleries for those who are interested in culture and there's music for every fan from blues to symphony orchestra. Finding places of interest in chicago is simple, choosing that which you wish to see is really a joy.

There are festivals that take place in the summer for music and food in one location and aside from seasonal sights, there are permanent and well known fixtures that attract people of all ages.

Finding places of interest in chicago is extremely easy. Most are well known to people who may not have even visited the city before, however, many are discovered easily with just a trip to an internet search to see what appeals to the tastes and preferences of the visitor. Everything from art to zoos can be found in the searches and also the choices are there regardless of what time of year you are planning your vacation.

For individuals who visit Chicago and want to spend their days enjoying the sights and experiences of the museums, there are several from which to choose and many of them are large and varied enough to merit a complete day stay or maybe more than a single trip to take them all in. A few of the places of interest in chicago are quite well known plus they behave as a magnet to a lot of visitors from all around the globe.

The Museum of Science and Industry for the south side is one that's been intriguing and delighting visitors of all ages for years. There are many unique and academic characteristics which will contain the attention of even the youngest tourists in your group and there is fun for everyone through the large and well-rehearsed museum.

An additional traditional and nicely loved feature from the city may be the Shedd Aquarium. This is Chicago's number 1 cultural appeal and also the reasons are clear. The Shedd is situated on Chicago's Museum Campus right on Lake Shore Drive. Every day shows and tours highlight dolphins, penguins, whales and sea turtles with a huge array of other sea creatures in between.

Yet another from the popular places of interest in chicago is the Adler Planetarium, a space experience that can make astronomy both fascinating and illuminating having a trip to their facility. The Art Institute of Chicago is another of the places that many tourists enjoy being a destination while going to the city and there are nearly unlimited methods to tailor each day spent there. Modern to classical art are featured with lots of popular and legendary pieces being housed there.

There tend to be choices for visitors who wish to maximize their time spent in the windy city and find out as numerous from the high points from the culture as you possibly can. Passes that are great for a number of days with lots of admission choices for probably the most popular as well as in demand locations are available. This allows the visitor having a limited budget and amount of time to see whenever possible while there.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/destinations-articles/have-you-seen-the-field-museum-in-chicago-recently.htm - Article Side

DJ Willis - About Author:
If you happen to be in the city of Chicago you may be looking for things to do. There are many famous attractions in Chicago that are worth visiting, such as the a Field Museum in Chicago, Shedd Aquarium and Willis Tower Skydeck. Don't miss out when you are visiting the windy city by a Chicago sightseeing.

Article Keywords:
attractions, destinations travel activities, places, travel and tourism, travel and leisure, travel, recreation

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!