Hotels in Lancaster Pennsylvania How to Choose the Right Hotel for Your Stay by David Dugan

Article published on July 19th 2012 | Destinations

When you're looking for hotels in Lancaster Pennsylvania, it can be difficult to choose which one to stay at. After all, there are a lot of great choices! For instance, many people really like the Lancaster Arts Hotel because it has a quaint, slightly funky, atmosphere. Hotels make a great alternative to staying at a friend's house, especially if you don't know anyone in Pennsylvania, or camping out in the woods. Of course, some people do prefer to camp during their vacation because it saves a lot of money on lodging expenses. The hotel that you choose needs to be close to the attractions and activities that you plan on doing during day.

While you're looking at the online listings for hotels in Lancaster Pennsylvania, make sure that you take a close look at the types of amenities that they offer. For instance, if you're visiting PA in the summer, then try to find places that have well maintained outdoor pools. However, if you are going to be traveling during the winter, an indoor pool would be a nice option to have. Additionally, it's also a good idea to make sure you won't be charged extra for things like using the mini fridge in your room. These little expenses can really add up if you incur a lot of them. Internet access is another popular feature to look for, and you may or may not need it while you're on vacation.

Try to plan your itinerary around the local hotels Lancaster PA has to offer. Lancaster has many interesting things to do, like visiting beautiful Hershey Park and hiking through the trails located inside the Fishing Creek Nature Preserve, so you shouldn't have a hard time doing this. If you're interested in butterflies, then you should definitely check out the butterfly walk that Hershey Gardens hosts every year. There are also many different flower and plant varieties to see at the garden, too, which interest a lot of people.

On a final note, many of the hotels in Lancaster, Pennsylvania are very affordable, costing under $100 per night. That being said, you should always make sure that the final price of your stay will be compatible with your vacation budget. There's nothing worse than coming back home and realizing that you don't have enough money to pay the bills. You may be able to pay your hotel expenses upfront when you make your reservation so that you don't have to handle the payment before you leave. This can create a more memorable vacation experience because it eliminates the need to think about money being spent before you head back home.
