Mallorca - the Mediterranean Lady by Frederick Pollard

Article published on July 4th 2012 | Destinations

Mallorca is an elegant island which is part of the Balearic Islands. It is one of those islands which have everything that any kind of tourist could need to make the holiday most memorable and enjoyable. The islandâ€™s elegance is what has given it the name Mediterranean Lady and tourism on the island dates back to the 1920s.

The climate in Mallorca is wonderful and so is the cosmopolitan ambience and beautiful landscapes all of which make it an ideal holiday resort for all. The culture is rich on this part of the Balearic Islands with Auditiorio de Palma being one of the best places the events take place. It is in Mallorca that you will find entertainment, culture, inspiration and relaxation all wrapped up into one. Even though most tourists coming here love staying in the hotels near the beaches, it is always a better idea to take a tour through the island.

Palma de Mallorca: it is one of the places which cannot be missed on a holiday here. It is the capital of Mallorca and has a beautiful bay and wonderful beaches. The best beaches you will find here include Can Pastilla, Coll Den Renassa and El Portixol. Other sandy beaches you will find within the area are Santa Ponca and Illetas which have crystalline waters and fine sand.

The Mountain Range: it is another must visit and see sight. It is parallel to the beautiful sea on the northeastern part of the islands from where you will enjoy wonderful sceneries. Standing out here is the Calvia village whose landscape is typically Mediterranean and home to a beautiful gothic Romanesque church and a castle which was erected in the 18th century.

The islandâ€™s most outstanding landscapes can be enjoyed from fishing villages found here. Camp de Mar is one of the best and beautiful bay here and you will be amazed by the small island found on its center. Also worth visiting on your holiday here is the natural port of Puerto de Andraitx which has pine woods for its surroundings. From the port you can have those wonderful coastal views and enjoy some of the monuments found on it.

There are many other places and things to see while on the Mallorca Island all of which are bound to make your holiday here most interesting, relaxing and enjoyable. It is always a good idea to explore and enjoy everything that it has to offer.
